

I graduated in economics and English from Allahabad University in 1995.

I was working with the Embassy of France, when I enrolled in M.sc. Environmental Science, and later started working and volunteering with NGO's in the Environment sector in 2010.

Conceptualized and went on to start Pro waste Concepts which is based in Bangalore.

It is a "for profit social enterprise"

Pro waste focuses on bringing about a frame work change. We work with the people to transform the mindset of the people towards waste.

Pro waste is beyond just providing services; We are working towards bringing a systemic change to improve the waste management practices using effective technology and holistic approach.

We implement sustainable, decentralized solid waste management systems and processes to create "zero waste campuses"
